

Inaugural art exhibit at Collected Detroit Gallery, 2439 Fourth Street, Saturday, December 8th, 6 – 10 pm

The grand-opening exhibition at the trailblazing new art gallery Collected Detroit showcases Detroit's top talent alongside world-renowned artists. The show includes works by Detroit artists Judy Bowman, Tyree Guyton, Al Loving, Nicole Macdonald, Charles McGee, Jane Knight, Heather McGill, Robert Sestok, Gilda Snowden, Bryant Tillman and more as well as works by Marc Chagall, Jean Cocteau, Le Corbusier, Roy Lichtenstein, Joan Miró, Pablo Picasso, Renee Radell, Man Ray and others.

Detroit in the World is a sampling of the one of metro Detroit's major art collector's many treasures. In an effort to support the artists it features, the gallery will offer residual payments to any artist whose work sells during the exhibit.

Collected Detroit, aims to exhibit the best work by area artists beside celebrated works from around the globe in order to celebrate Detroit's world-class creativity and to put the spotlight on Detroit as a destination for serious art collectors.

Marion Hayden's trio will perform at the opening reception on December 8th. The event is catered and beverages will be provided. There is ample parking in the lot across the street from the gallery.